

CALL FOR THE TUTORIAL

The SIG Tutorial on Design Theory aims at providing relevant, inspiring and actionable knowledge to researchers looking to increase their knowledge and competencies in Design Theory.

Target audience is scholars, especially PhD students and post-doc students, who are interested in research topics related to Design Theory.

The objectives of the session are:

- To learn some of the foundational models used in Design Theory and research, their relationship and the historical context within which they were proposed
- To develop skills in applying a variety of design methods in various situations for different purposes - including for research,
- To interact with and learn from specialist researchers in the field to develop and refine your own research questions and to build future collaboration opportunities.

All professors of the tutorial are international researchers from leading labs working on Design Theory (Carnegie Mellon University, Tel Aviv University, Otto-von-Guericke University, ORT Braude College, Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Pennsylvania State University, James Madison University, MINES ParisTech, etc.)

THE PLATFORM FOR THE TUTORIAL IS OPEN UP TO NOVEMBER THE 30TH, 2021

TUTORIAL SUBMISSION

Submission to the TUTORIAL

To participate to the Tutorial, please send us a short summary of no more than two pages on your PhD project through our website.

We will accept the participation requests based on limited available capacity.

Submission deadline is November 30th, 2021

NOTE:

- Registered participants are expected to participate in all the tutorial program.
- Senior scholars are also warmly welcome - please send a short note of no more than two pages on your research program and the reasons for your interest in attending the tutorial.

Acceptance or Refusal of your submission will be communicated on December the 12th. All accepted participants will received the planning of the Tutorial on December the 20th.

Please contact Stéphanie Brunet <stephanie.brunet@mines-paristech.fr> if you have any question regarding submission.

Location

MINES ParisTech (Ecole des Mines), 60 boulevard Saint Michel, Paris 75006, FRANCE.

MINES ParisTech is located in the heart of the Latin quarter of Paris, near the Pantheon, Sorbonne University and the Luxembourg gardens. It is really easy to access our school as it's 50 m from the Luxembourg subway Station (RER)

NOTE:

This Tutorial aims at fostering exchanges among members of the community. Therefore, our wish is to organise in on site. If the pandemic situation is to carry on, we will probably organized an hybrid Tutorial.

Practicalities and costs

The 3-day tutorial fee is 100€.

Doctoral students and senior scholars accepted for the Tutorial and who are in need of funding can apply for a limited number of scholarships to cover inscription and accommodation costs. Number of scholarships is limited and will be allocated by the organizing committee.

Please contact Stéphanie Brunet <stephanie.brunet@mines-paristech.fr> for further details.
